- Q1. There is room for interpretation in the trench-widening portion of the Scope of Work. The station numbering on this particular project run North to South instead of South to North. In the proposal the Department makes note of trench-widening do be done on the left side and the right side. Is that in line with the North to South stationing or the traditional stationing South to North?
- A1. It is in the direction of the stationing, north to south.
